

Tuition-free Miami U. graduate courses at Cincy Zoo

Hello from Earth Expeditions!

We're gearing up for this summer's international Field Courses, but we've also got some great opportunities a little closer to home. Because you work with informal educators, we want you to know that we're accepting applications now for Zoo Expeditions - our Fall 2006 tuition-free courses for educators from Miami University's Project Dragonfly and the Cincinnati Zoo & Botanical Garden.

Informal educators, naturalists, school administrators, and classroom teachers are invited to join us for these three-credit-hour graduate classes that take place on the grounds of the Cincinnati Zoo and in our Web-Based Learning Communities. Our 2006 fall courses are:

- Plants & People;
- Habitats, Adaptation, & Evolution; and
- Primate Behavior & Conservation.

Zoo Expedition applications are accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. I hope you'll apply and perhaps consider letting your colleagues know. Check out our website at <http://www.EarthExpeditions.org>. If you have questions about the program, please don't hesitate to contact Program Assistant Meg Bickerstaff at triplem@muohio.edu or (513) 529-5103.

We hope you'll join us.

In the spirit of inquiry,
Chris

Chris Myers, Professor
School of Interdisciplinary Studies
Director, Project Dragonfly
Miami University
Oxford, Ohio 45056

<http://www.EarthExpeditions.org>