

The Absolute Easiest Way to Compost

All you have to do is dig little holes and bury the food scraps. No special equipment is needed, no enormous dedicated space required.

Even young children can do it, and they'll think it's fun! Dig a hole, dump in the scraps and make sure the scraps are completely covered.

(Image credit: Anne Wolfe Postic)

(Image credit: Anne Wolfe Postic)

It works quickly. A few days later, it's rare to see an identifiable vegetable peel or onion skin in the soil. If you do accidentally dig in a spot that isn't fully decomposed, just cover it up and dig another little hole.