Intercultural study for transfer students

Intercultural Study for Global Citizenship

One of the five core values at the foundation of Goshen College is Global Citizenship, so intercultural study is an important component of the Goshen Core. There are two basic ways to meet the intercultural study requirement: international SST and an on-campus alternative program.

I. International Study-Service Term (SST)

The SST program, launched by Goshen College in 1968, is designed to immerse students in a culture significantly different from dominant United States culture. Goshen faculty leaders arrange the academic program and give personal counsel to a group of up to 23 students. The first six weeks are spent studying the language and culture of the host country through host family relationships, lectures, discussion, field trips, reading, journal writing, and special projects. In the next six weeks, students work in a service-learning assignment, often in a rural area, and complete a major project to present during the last week of the term. Language competence equivalent to two semesters of college-level study is required to participate in SST.

International Spanish units are offered every year in Peru (fall, spring and summer). Currently, other international units operate in these locations:

- Senegal (French) – summer of even numbered years
- Cambodia (Khmer) – spring of 2015-16
- Tanzania (Swahili) – spring of 2016-17
- China (Mandarin) – fall of 2017

Expect some extra cost (varied according to location) for international SST programs.

Students may pre-register for two units. Enrollment form is at www.goshen.edu/sst. Completed forms can be submitted at either the International Education office or the registrar’s office, AD 14.

II. On-Campus Alternative Program

While immersion in another culture through SST comes nearest to our ideal for an integrative experience in international education, we provide another option to promote the same learning outcomes. The on-campus alternative has three components:

1. Language requirement. Students must demonstrate competence at the 102 level of any world language by course credit, placement exam, or CLEP credit.

2. Any three of the following courses (or transfer equivalent).

3. CORE 300, Global Issues Seminar. This course should be taken as a capstone, after completing the three courses from the list above.
Variation for Education and Nursing majors

Because of significant intercultural education within each of these professional majors, education (both elementary and secondary) and nursing students have a reduced requirement for the on-campus alternative program:

1. Language competence at the 101 level (for nursing) or 102 level (for education)
2. Two courses from the list above
3. CORE 300, Global Issues Seminar

Variation for Transfer Students who have completed an Associate Degree

Choice of two options:

1. International Study-Service Term (SST) as described above, including language prerequisite

2. Modified On-campus Alternative Program
   - 1 semester of foreign language (or equivalent)
   - 1 SST alternate class (3 credits)
   - Core 300, Global Issues Seminar (3 credits)

See the International Education section of the course catalog or the Study Abroad web site www.goshen.edu/sst for more information. For questions about individual situations, contact Tom Meyers, Associate Academic Dean and Director of International Education.
